

THE FOUNDERS BETRAYED IN 1913

THREE CONNECTED ACTS OF CONGRESS

The same foreign influenced cartel in Congress passed three momentous acts all in the same year: 1913.

They were the The 16th Amendment, the The Tax Act of 1913 and The Federal Reserve Act.

Could there be a deliberate, hidden connection between the imposition of the income tax and the imposition of inflationary central banking?

Could there have been collusion amongst these Insiders to guarantee that the income tax would provide themselves the interest payments on the massive government debt they knew their central bank would create?

The 16th Amendment - The Illusion Is Created

The 16th Amendment to the United States Constitution was proposed by Congress in 1909.

For four years, national newspapers heralded the coming of the income tax.

By the time the last State had ratified the new amendment in 1913 (despite clear and rampant fraud during the ratification process, the courts have nevertheless held the 16th as valid), the American public had been thoroughly conditioned to accept the 16th as the constitutional authority for the newly imposed income tax.

Little did they know that this brand new income tax would be collected from the sweat of their brow to pay the international bankers the compound interest on the national debt that would inevitably result after the passage of their Federal Reserve Act in December of that same year.

The "Tax Act of 1913" - The Safety Valve Is Installed

There was a serious fiscal crisis in Congress in the late 1800's and early 1900's.

What was it?

John Clark Ridpath, writing in his 1910 series "The History of the World", states in Volume 9:

"... the revenues of the United States were swollen to mountainous proportions. The Treasury at Washington became engorged ..."

Harvard professor F.W. Taussig in his 1931 book "The Tariff History of the United States", wrote:

"... the government was embarrassed by a large surplus in the revenue ..."

It appears that there was over one hundred million dollars in excess funds in the Treasury at the end of the 19th century, an amount worth billions in today's inflated dollars.

And it was during this very same period that the scheming to impose the income tax took place.

Now ask yourself, if the Treasury was overflowing with surplus funds, why did the government need any income tax for revenue?

It didn't.

As Beardsley Ruml revealed thirty-three years later in 1946, the income tax act wasn't passed for revenue, but to guarantee a dollar with "stable purchasing power" ... by siphoning excess paper from circulation to prevent hyperinflation.

The Federal Reserve Act - The Trap Is Sprung

Three years after that still secret meeting on Jekyll Island, a mere handful of Senators, including none other than Senator Aldrich, host of that furtive conference, rammed the Federal Reserve Act through Congress, after the opposition had already gone home for the holidays.

As author Devvy Kidd states in her booklet "Why a Bankrupt America", quote:

"At 6:00PM on December 23, 1913, while Congress was out of session, three Senators took it upon themselves to pass, by voice vote, the Federal Reserve Act of 1913. These three individuals handed over America's future and our economic system to a handful of private domestic individuals and foreign banking interests. Our Founding Fathers would have shouted 'Treason!'"

President Wilson, an internationalist, was waiting for the bill and signed it into law one hour later.
